Many of his students call him a crackpot, but he is driven by inner desires. Neighbors are moving, but his wife helps him with his endeavors. As his closest friends try to understand his motives, the adventure begins. The survival of the Earth depends on the results. The first journey to Mars is the only hope. After writing Dawn of Negative Time from and Within the World of Forever, another thought-provoking novel was imagined. The third book is a continuation of the story, which draws the reader into another reality. With another fresh approach, more is revealed. My objective is to enhance the first two books from a unique perspective. If the first book is the foundation, and the second is the structure, then the third is the meat, which covers the future from the past. A higher level of awareness is obtained as the story progresses. Enjoy my third science fiction novel and prepare for a journey, which will never be forgotten by any generation.
