Excerpt from Federal Government Technology Transfer and Commercialization Programs: Hearing Before the Subcommittee on Economic Growth and Credit Formation of the Committee on Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs, House of Representatives, One Hundred Third Congress, First Session, October 21, 1993 I should comment that the law changed in 1986, and prior to that, we were performing this kind of service for most Federal agencies. When the Technology Transfer Act of 1986 developed the basis for cooperative research and development agreements at individual agencies, there was a decentralization that took place on patent and licensing. We do less work for some of the larger agencies like nist and nih than we did in the past, but we are now doing an increasing amount of work for some of the smaller agencies that have not really had patent licensing programs before. So this effort, although there was a major change in 1986 because of the change in the law, this effort is really growing at ntlis. Let me finish with a few comments that are intended to tie this together for...

Reviews

The most effective pdf i ever go through. It is probably the most incredible book i have got study. You wont sense monotony at at any time of the time (that's what catalogues are for relating to if you check with me).

-- Ahmad Heaney

Thorough manual for pdf lovers. I am quite late in start reading this one, but better then never. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.
