Growing Up in America: The Power of Race in the Lives of Teens (Paperback)

By Brad Christerson, Korie L. Edwards, Richard W. Flory

Stanford University Press, United States, 2010. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. People's experiences of racial inequality in adulthood are well documented, but less attention is given to the racial inequalities that children and adolescents face. Growing Up in America provides a rich, first-hand account of the different social worlds that teens of diverse racial and ethnic backgrounds experience. In their own words, these American teens describe, conflicts with parents, pressures from other teens, school experiences, and religious beliefs that drive their various understandings of the world. As the book reveals, teens' unequal experiences have a significant impact on their adult lives and their potential for social mobility. Directly confronting the constellation of advantages and disadvantages white, black, Hispanic, and Asian teens face today, this work provides a framework for understanding the relationship between socialization in adolescence and social inequality in adulthood. By uncovering the role racial and ethnic differences play early on, we can better understand the sources of inequality in American life.

Reviews

This publication will never be straightforward to get going on looking at but really fun to see. This can be for all those who state that there had not been a worth looking at. You won't really feel monotony at any moment of your own time (that's what catalogs are for about should you request me).

This is the very best publication I have got to go through until now. I am quite late in starting reading this one, but better than never. I discovered this pdf from my dad and I encouraged this book to understand.
